Course Descriptions

Practical Application of Manual Therapy Course Description

Presented By: Institute of Advanced Musculoskeletal Treatments (IAMT)

This live class is designed for physical therapists looking to enhance their clinical problem-solving and practical application of manual therapy skills. In this 6 hr lab-based course clinicians will learn a variety of manual therapy principles and techniques to address impairments in the cervical, lumbar, upper quarter, and lower quarter regions. The topics covered will take a practical, evidence-supported approach that will be applicable quickly in the clinic and will be centered around improving clinical efficiency and patient outcomes.

Clinical Pain Science: What Should I do With My Patient on Monday?

Presented by: Marshall University School of Physical Therapy

Discover a comprehensive professional development opportunity tailored for physical therapists and physical therapist assistants. This specialized course equips participants with essential knowledge and skills to effectively manage patients suffering from chronic pain. Participants will gain insight into chronic pain through a succinct overview, explore contemporary assessment methodologies, and delve into pain neuroscience education (PNE). The course also covers comprehensive treatment strategies, specific physical therapy interventions, and introduces psychological approaches crucial for managing chronic pain. Our goal is to empower PT clinicians with practical, actionable information that can seamlessly integrate into their clinical practice as early as Monday morning.
